Timezone and clock handbook

Instant formats

ISO-8601 instants carry Z or a +HH:MM offset; epoch values are seconds or milliseconds since the Unix epoch.

Local wall-clock times

A local time is converted with the zone's rules in timezone_rules.toml. A local time that does not exist (spring-forward gap) is read with the offset in force before the transition; a local time that occurs twice (fall-back) is the earlier instant. The zone of an account is the zone of the first four digits of its postal code at event_time (the account resolved through the legacy crosswalk and merge chains); the zone of a merchant is the entry in merchant_settlement_tz.ini of the canonical merchant (after merged_into chains), whose values are zone aliases.

Calendar times

Calendar DTSTART values in UTC end in Z; others are local times in their TZID zone (same rules).

Terminal clocks

Terminal batches record UTC as kept by the terminal; true UTC = recorded_at + skew_seconds of the terminal.

Spreadsheet serials

Excel serials count days (with a fraction) from 1899-12-30 in the 1900 system, from 1904-01-01 in the 1904 system; the annotator roster uses the 1904 system. Serial datetimes are UTC and are rounded to the nearest second.
